The California Department of Transportation (CalTrans) invites you to attend its Long Range Transportation Plan Workshop. This training will examine the transportation planning process for tribal communities and how it is linked to land use, economic goals, environmental and cultural concerns of tribal communities.

This workshop will provide an overview the processes tribes may use to develop a Tribal Long Range Transportation Plan in accordance with California State and Federal Laws. By doing so, the concerns identified in the Tribal Long Range Transportation Plan may be presented for incorporation into local, regional, state and federal transportation plans.

In addition, this workshop will also present information on the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) Indian Reservation Road (IRR) Inventory, the new Road Inventory Field Data System (RIFDS), and Traffic Circulation Reports.
