Growing the Tribal CYD Field

Presented By:

Nicole Myers-Lim
Executive Director,
California Indian Museum &
Cultural Center

Carol Oliva
Development Officer
National Indian Justice
Center

The National Indian Justice Center, Inc., (NIJC) is an Indian owned and operated non-profit corporation with principal offices in Santa Rosa, California. NIJC was established in 1983 to serve as an independent national resource for Native communities and tribal governments.

NIJC designs and delivers legal education, research, and technical assistance programs which seek to improve the quality of life for Native communities and the administration of justice in Indian country. NIJC services may be contracted for local delivery.

Creative Youth Development (CYD) describes the practice of integrating the arts, sciences, cultures and humanities with youth development principles, sparking youth creativity and building critical learning and life skills that carry into adulthood. This field and hundreds of CYD programs now exist in the U.S., demonstrating the success of youth intervention strategies. For nineteen years, the National Arts and Humanities Youth Development Award Program, an initiative of the President's Commission on the Arts and Humanities, has celebrated the excellence of CYD programs. In 2016, the Tribal Youth Ambassadors (TYA) Program of the California Indian Museum and Cultural Center (CIMCC) was one of twelve youth programs in the nation to earn this highest honor for out-of-school arts and humanities programs that reach young people with tremendous potential, but limited resources.

This training session will provide information about how CIMCC and TYA are working to foster Native perspectives and practices in the CYD field. It will examine the CYD approach, the benefits of CYD programs for tribal youth, and the opportunities and means to implement CYD programs in tribal communities to fit the specific needs of tribal youth.

This training session is designed for tribal leadership, tribal government personnel, tribal educators, tribal youth program personnel, tribal justice personnel, and others concerned with the positive development of tribal youth. Participants will receive a comprehensive training manual and a certificate of achievement upon completion of the course.

THIS TRAINING WILL EXAMINE:

- ◆ Core characteristics of effective CYD programs
- ◆ Why CYD matters for tribal youth and communities
- ◆ Tribal CYD models and their best practices and lessons learned
- ◆ Cultivating Tribal CYD youth leaders
- ◆ Integrating Tribal CYD programs in overall tribal community development
- ◆ Funding Tribal CYD programs
- ◆ Sustaining Tribal CYD programs
- ◆ Partnerships for Tribal CYD programs
